Editors Express Belief in Maintaining Adequate Army for National Defense

THE PRESS, in general, agreed with the report recently made by Maj. Gen. Charles P. Summerall on the condition of the Army. The fact that the Army is below the quota established by the National Defense Act of 1920, while the armies of Europe are of greater size than ever, is a matter for very serious consideration for the people of the United States as well as for Congress. The widespread opinions of the leading papers concur in that the possibility of war is remote, but that the surest method of preventing such an eventuality is to maintain the standard set by the National Defense Act.

"WHEN a soldier of the ability of Gen. Charles P. Summerall tells the country that the United States Army is hopelessly—and almost helplessly—undersized, food for thought is provided on a theme the importance of which cannot possibly be overestimated," says the Washington, D. C. Evening Star (Independent). "Basking, as the American people are accustomed to do, in the supposedly eternal sunshine of peace, the average citizen gives small heed to the gravity of an authentic assertion like this. As a matter of fact, it bristles with seriousness and national peril."

"Military unpreparedness has been the Nation's besetting sin ever since the foundation of the Republic. The present state of unrest throughout the world does not suggest that this is the time for the United States to persist in remaining chronically unready for the incalculable."

"THE story that has been written since the signing of the Peace of Versailles is no exception to the rule," avers the Washington, D. C. Post (Independent). "Gradually the Army has been reduced from a strength of 280,000 men, as provided in the National Defense Act of 1920, to the present strength of less than 120,000 men. Deducting the forces required for overseas garrisons, service schools, etc., there remains a force of but 53,954 men for the formation of a mobile force capable of taking the field on the outbreak of war. The strength of the Regular Army today, says Gen. Summerall, is 'entirely inadequate' to serve even as an 'agency' for facilitating a general mobilization."

"America has no need of a huge standing army. Gen. Summerall suggests, however, that today, when the number of men under arms throughout the world is greater than at any previous epoch in the peace-time history of the United States, there is a danger that America, if she were attacked, would be unable to defend herself. The United States, several times in the past, has proved that she can raise a fighting army on short notice. But in emergencies delays are costly. There is no way of estimating what the delay between the declaration of war and the mobilization of the Army in 1917 cost the United States in men or money."

"While economy should always be the rule in Government, it is a penny-wise policy that reduces the size of the Army beneath the minimum requirement for the purposes of defense."

Army Transportation

(Following is the second installment of a copyright paper prepared by Col. Brainerd Taylor, QMC, USA, for delivery at the recent Transportation meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers.)

Considering the Theatre of War as a whole, it is absolutely essential to have, as far as military operations are concerned, one comprehensive system of transportation, operating in five principal branches or services, each with its own peculiar missions, i. e., Rail, Water, Air, Highway and Signal Communications.

In the military service as in commerce, rail and water transportation form the natural trunk-lines, their missions being long and rapid transportation of great numbers of troops and supplies. Air transport, chiefly a combat service, is also a highly specialized form of transportation that annihilates time and distance and reaches points

"ON THE termination of hostilities," says Gen. Summerall, "it has been the general practice to revert to our pre-war state of unpreparedness," quotes the Newport News, Va. Times-Herald (Democratic).

"Gen. Summerall's remarks on the whole commend themselves for careful consideration. His arguments are as amply bolstered by history as is possible. Where there are exceptions to his general observations, he admits them. It is a convincing argument, worth the attention which in all probability will be given it. War may never come to this country. Few, if any, Americans would desire that it come, but one of the surest buttresses against it will be an adequate army of defense, a perpetual warning to those who would stir up strife with a people of peaceful inclinations. For, despite the aversion of the American for war, there are those beyond our borders who would welcome an opportunity to force it upon us were they confident of victory."

"GEN. SUMMERALL'S plea, of course, was for a defensive force," says the St. Louis, Mo., Star (Independent). "There is no likelihood, even in the minds of big Army men, that we shall go on an invading expedition elsewhere for a long time to come. Certainly we are in no danger of invasion. Mussolini is not rattling his sword in our direction, and would only be laughed at if he did. A world combination against us is so remote and unthinkable that even a 'potential' army of 2,000,000 sounds preposterous. We can afford to go on urging world peace and setting the example."

GEN. SUMMERALL, the New York Times (Independent Democratic) claims, "is not opposed to government economy. He believes that the country should have called upon Congress to carry out the terms of the National Defense Act. So Gen. Pershing has held. The nucleus for expansion, he believes, has been whittled down too low."

"The country maintains a regular army considerably smaller than Great Britain's. In our count the National Guard may be included. But there are potentialities of an emergency army that need not be overlooked. The General Staff has a mobilization plan. It contemplates the assembling of 4,301,947 men and 254,767 officer in about ten months. The paper effort of the United States presupposes a complement 20 per cent higher than that of 1917-18. It cannot be claimed that there would be enough reserve officers in addition to regulars and National Guard to lead such a great army. It is estimated that 80,000 more would be needed. Camps would be organized for the training of the officers required. By the end of ten months they should be available. The United States is not ready for another world war, but could be ready in nine months less than the record of 1917-18."

be guided by a doctrine that will enable us to carry war from the start into enemy territory and keep it safely away from our homeland until peace can be restored. Nothing less effective can be accepted as adequate National Defense.

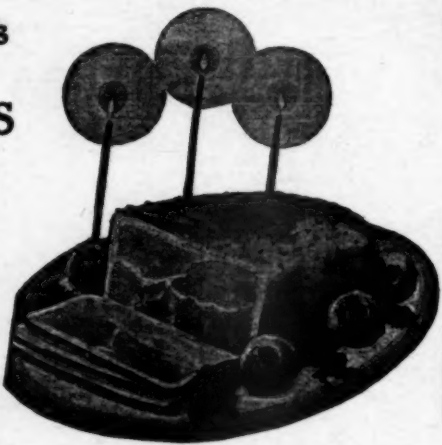

In military operations it is essential that personnel and supplies move in accordance with military plans and requirements. To this end it is necessary to provide for continuity of control to be exercised by military transportation authorities over all transportation used in connection with military operations from points of origin in the Zone of the Interior to points of distribution in the Combat Zone. This control must include all the functions of maintenance as well as operation.

In exercising this military coordinating control over commercial systems in the Zone of the Interior, recourse must be had to traffic arrangements made through regular commercial transportation agencies and federal transportation agencies acting in the interests of the Government. Over military systems and all systems operating in the theatre of military operations, however, actual military control over the operations and maintenance of lines, terminals, and rolling stock must be positively established as functions of military transportation officers. The importance of this set-up cannot be too strongly emphasized as essential to the success of modern military operations.

The principal bearing that the subject of coordinated transportation has upon the maintenance of motor vehicles (Please turn to Page 333) hitherto unapproachable by any other form of transportation. Highway transportation, including motor and animal and both road and cross-country vehicles, is the natural collector and distributor of passengers and cargoes carried by rail, water and air transportation. Signal communications, telephone, telegraph and radio necessary for transport control and administration, must be considered as a branch of any system of coordinated transportation. This five branch system, including hybrid services and combinations, requires organization in military operations to provide for the following requirements:

Rail, water, air, highway and signal systems require coordination with each other, in both line and terminal operations, and in accordance with line and terminal capacities to meet the existing conditions and requirements of military and commercial supply and demand. War plans and military operations require an absolutely perfect balance of all transportation facilities both operating and maintenance to maintain the power of combat until success is assured and peace restored.

Operating and maintenance requirements of each branch, embracing vehicles, plants, lines and terminals, must be coordinated; otherwise one branch may be over used, badly strained and perhaps paralyzed, as in the World War. Perfect balance of transportation facilities is easily lost and when lost freight and troop congestions result, wide gaps occur in the flow of personnel and materials required for replacements. Thus the power of combat may be dangerously diminished. Motors were used by the British in France for a while until both vehicles and roads were seriously deteriorated, and when rails were over used and military movement lost in congestion while motors were being overhauled and roads repaired. Each was operated and maintained separately for a while without coordination and with rapidly diminishing power in consequence. The establishment of a completely coordinated system of transportation embracing operation and maintenance was the ultimate requirement.

Transportation planning for the three zones of war, i. e., Zone of the Interior, Communications Zone and Combat Zone, needs to be coordinated long before war breaks out so that other plans and military operations from the first day of mobilization to the declaration of peace can be successfully carried out with a smooth, even flow of troops and supplies from points of origin in the Zone of the Interior to points of distribution in the Zone of Combat.

In National Defense it is most important that our organization provide that all transportation, working as one system, be capable of quick and effective action in mobilization. In this organization and operation we should

Situation in Congress

THE situation of service legislation including pay and promotion, at the session of Congress, which opened on Monday, is complicated by political and economic factors apt to delay, if not block action.

These factors include the critical, even the hostile attitude of members of the House and Senate toward the President, the necessity of providing for unemployment, the passage of the regular appropriation bills, the difficulty of reaching a compromise regarding Muscle Shoals, the desire, in some way, to solve the prohibition question, and Mr. Hoover's insistence upon consideration of the World Court proposal.

There will be an extra session, if something be not done about Muscle Shoals. To avoid anything of the kind, the Republican leaders are determined to effect an agreement upon this measure, which is in conference. The Senate wants to defer consideration of American entrance into the World Court, but some of its members desire to use this proposal to delay consideration of the appropriation bills, and thus force the extra session. As there remain only 67 legislative days of the session, and especially in view of the amount of business that must be done, the leaders are unwilling to permit consideration of any matters which are apt to give rise to debate.

This being the background, it is obvious that service legislation of a controversial character will be difficult of enactment. Regarding pay and promotion, the Reed Congressional Committee will hold a meeting next week and decide upon its procedure. The report of the Interdepartmental Board is so comprehensive, and the amount of information furnished to the Committee is so detailed, that it is argued that there is no need for hearings. However, it is expected such hearings will be held in order that questions may be put to members of the Board, and information from other sources obtained. Members of the Committee frankly state that at this time it is impossible to adopt the recommendations of the Board because of the large additional appropriations that would be involved. If an increase should be granted, it will be less than that the Board proposed. The Committee is especially sympathetic toward the recommendation for an increase in pay for the junior officers, and Senator Reed will make a determined fight in their behalf. Mr. Reed makes no secret of his interest in proper compensation, and the services can depend upon him to do all he can in their behalf. The difficulty he is experiencing is the general attitude of Congress, which feels that in the existing situation there should be no increase in pay for Government employees during 1932. The House Appropriations Committee so provided in a rider to the Treasury Appropriation bill, and this in rejection of a recommendation by the President for an appropriation of $14,400,000 to equalize injustice in the pay of departmental help. In his recommendation, the President used reasoning which could well apply to the service situation. There should be "equal compensation for equal work," he declared. That is what the services want.

Senator Reed, who was a delegate to the London Conference which negotiated the London Disarmament Treaty, is determined to see that the ratio established by that instrument shall be achieved. He has been in conference with Senator Hale, Chairman of the Senate Naval Committee, and the two have formulated a program which, if adopted, will produce this result. There is no doubt that the battle-ship modernization proposal will be enacted.

So far as service promotion is concerned, the conflict between the Senate and House continues. Senator Reed has the backing of the Senate in respect of Army reorganization. He is

Secretary of War Urges Adequate Army Pay

SECRETARY OF WAR HURLEY in his annual report to the President had the following to say in regard to the pay and promotion situation:

Cognizant of the vital relation between efficiency and morale, the War Department is giving careful study to the maintenance of morale and the related questions of pay and promotion which so closely concern the individual. The latter deserves to be assured that his personal welfare is receiving reasoned consideration. Except for the slight relief afforded by the pay act of 1922, the pay of the Army has remained practically unchanged since 1908, notwithstanding that the cost of living has constantly mounted since that time. All of the departments of the Government, except the uniformed services, have had material increases in pay over the 1908 scale. I feel that increased pay for the Army is a vital subject requiring proper adjustment. The situation confronting the junior officers is particularly to be deplored.

A great deal is expected of the Regular Army officer. The standards by which he is judged are more exacting than those generally obtaining in civil life. Men who meet these requirements are entitled to adequate compensation. Those who can not, in all respects, measure up to these standards, however well they may attain some of them, forfeit their claim to a place in the profession.

Secretary Hurley's Report

SECRETARY OF WAR HURLEY in his annual report to the President, summarizes the state of the Army as reported to him by his subordinates. The highlight of his report is his expression of opinion that the need for increased pay for the Army "is a vital subject requiring proper adjustment."

Pertinent extracts from the report follow:

"The Army has been fortunate during the past fiscal year in being able to pursue its own training and further the coordinated development of its various components without being called upon to intervene in any domestic or international crisis. The opportunity has not been lost and the efficiency of the Army of the United States has been increased, an efficiency that is vital to the national security."

"If the policy of building up the enlisted strength of the Air Corps by transfers from the other arms is continued, the Army will soon be unable properly to perform its many missions. Already training in our Summer camps has been adversely affected by the reduction in strength of our Regular organizations."

"The depletion of the other arms must stop or else our program of national defense must undergo reorganization and the missions assigned the Regular Army by the national defense act be modified."

"Considerable progress was made in the development of light and medium tanks. Both types have been given greater speed, better armor protection, and more powerful armament. They are the equal, if not the superior, of any similar weapons known to be in existence today. For the first time the Army has a light tank that can be quickly produced in large numbers in the event of a national emergency."

"Progress is being made in the development of an Officers' Reserve Corps in which each member will be required to maintain his qualifications for his grade in arm or service. The method of promotion through credit for hours of work is being gradually abolished. Qualification by examination will result in uniformly higher standards of efficiency."

"The Reserves form a very important part of our system of national defense. Only our best Regular officers should be detailed for duty with this component. The standards to be met by our Reserve officers must be high, so that the system built up shall be thoroughly dependable, while the Reserve officer himself must enjoy the complete confidence and respect of his brother officers in all components of the Army, and especially of the people of the community in which he lives."

"Although the Army is severely taxed to conduct the necessary Summer training camps with the troops available, it is, in addition, called upon to furnish approximately 300 officers and 2,000 enlisted men for duty at the national matches. Congress has passed legislation requiring that the matches be held annually. However, they should not be permitted to increase in size unless the strength of arms, depleted by transfers of their enlisted personnel to the Air Corps, is restored. The national matches, properly conducted, are an important asset in our defensive preparations. Although most of the men attending the matches are more directly interested in the individual marksmanship events, the opportunity should not be lost to interest this large assembly of patriotic citizens in the problems and weapons of combat. Our system of national defense contemplates that such instruction should be given the able-bodied citizen who may be called into military service in an emergency. Effort is being made to direct the matches with this objective in mind."

THE Secretary of the Navy has assigned the name Yosemite, after Yosemite Valley, Calif., to the mine layer second line, San Francisco, now out of commission at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, the change to become effective Jan. 1, 1931.

The previous change of name of the San Francisco to the Tahoe, announced Nov. 25, 1930, has been cancelled.

"Since the World War an attempt has been made to accumulate and maintain war reserve stocks of many essential items which could not be immediately produced in quantity in the event of another major emergency. Each year has seen further depletion of these stocks by deterioration and budgetary limitations. At the present rate of depletion it will be but a matter of several years when there will be no properly balanced war reserve stocks on hand for immediate issue to mobilized man power."

"The lack of such war stocks would make prompt and complete military effectiveness impossible in a given situation."

President Explains Budget

FOLLOWING are salient extracts from the President's message transmitting the Budget to Congress:

The War Department is carrying forward a building program, involving an ultimate expenditure of about $160,000,000, for the housing of military personnel and utilities, made necessary by the need for replacing World War temporary construction and to provide generally for the increase in the pre-war strength of the Regular Army. There has already been appropriated for the purpose $53,348,000, and $14,700,000 is carried in the estimates for 1932, with authority to make contracts for $3,000,000 additional. The estimates for 1932 also carry $2,625,000 for technical buildings for the Air Service of the Army and $1,530,000 for other buildings for various purposes for the Army and the Panama Canal.

For buildings and structures for the Navy the Budget carries estimates aggregating $9,542,500, of which $50,000 is for the purchase of necessary land.

National Defense

The estimates of appropriations for the War and Navy Departments for 1932 provide a total of $689,084,000 for national defense. This is exclusive of all items of a nonmilitary character and is a decrease under the appropriations for this purpose for 1931 of $33,697,000.

The decrease for the War Department amounts to $751,000, which amount is the net result of increases and decreases in many items based on the different requirements for the two fiscal years involved.

The decrease for the Navy Department is $32,946,000. Due to the ratification of the London Treaty, the operating force program of the Navy was revised to provide for a reduction

Sixth CA Notes

THE cadets of the Morgan Park Military Academy, Chicago, Ill. were reviewed by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Corps Area Commander, recently. Following the review, Gen. Parker was the guest of honor at a dinner in the alumni memorial hall, at which were present some 350 of the trustees, faculty, cadets and guests of the academy. Gen. Parker spoke on the subject, "Military Training for Character Building."

Gen. Parker was the principal speaker at an Armistice Day radio program broadcast by station WGN, the Chicago Tribune, on the night of Nov. 11, his subject being, "Reminiscences of Armistice Day."

The Corps Area Commander and Staff were guests of honor at the annual Armistice Day luncheon of the Traffic Club of Chicago, in the Red Lacquer Room of the Palmer House, at noon, Nov. 10. Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, former commander of the 66th Brigade, Illinois National Guard, made the principal address, an eloquent tribute to the heroes of the World War and a plea for present-day preparedness. This patriotic affair was arranged by the Army and Navy Committee of the Traffic Club, of which Lt. Col. N. R. Markle is chairman.

On Saturday night, Nov. 8, Gen. and Mrs. Parker were guests of honor at the Armistice Day celebration of the Society of French War Veterans of Chicago, at the Palmer House.

Maj. Gen. H. G. Bishop, Chief of Field Artillery, U. S. Army, visited Sixth Corps Area Headquarters and the field artillery unit of the University of Chicago R. O. T. C. on Nov. 3, as part of an extended tour to the various educational institutions throughout the country, with a view to obtaining first-hand knowledge of the facilities and needs of the different R. O. T. C. units. From Chicago, Gen. Bishop proceeded to the University of Illinois, at Champaign, where the field artillery R. O. T. C. unit at that institution was visited on Nov. 5. Gen. Bishop requested especially that no changes be made in the scheduled duties of the units visited, as his tour was one of observation rather than of inspection.

Gen. Howland Standardizes

ORDERS have been issued at Ft. Francis E. Warren, Wyo., governing general standards in training, uniform, ceremonies. Orders standardizing colors used in painting on the post, standardizing post fixtures have also been issued by Brig. Gen. C. R. Howland.

These orders state that the trimming for stone buildings shall be white, except porch floors and ceilings, which are to be French gray. Wooden buildings are to be white, if the roofs are of tin they are to be painted red, and if they are shingle their color is to be crown green. All railings and metal work will be black.

The interiors of the officers' quarters will be decorated with buff, and trimmed with ivory. The floors are to be sanded, varnished and waxed. The radiators are to be enameled in buff. Fire equipment is to be red, except the fire plugs, which will be canary yellow. Fence posts are to be white, and telephone poles green. The interior of the stables are to be white trimmed with black. Passenger automobiles will not be repainted.

Army JAG Opinion

THE Judge Advocate General was recently requested to render an opinion concerning the appointment of an officer to the rank of lieutenant colonel on Jan. 25, 1928, who subsequently was appointed professor, United States Military Academy, with the rank of lieutenant colonel, and immediately upon his acceptance of the appointment was demoted about 70 numbers in relative rank, in accordance with the provisions of Section 127a, National Defense Act. It was requested by this officer that the necessary steps be taken to restore his name in the logical place on the relative list.

It was pointed out by the JAG that the only statute which provides specifically that an officer may retain his rank when leaving one branch of the Regular Army and going to another, is found in Section 24d of the National Defense Act (41 Stat. 774; 10 USC 493): "Upon his own application any officer may be transferred to another branch without loss of rank or change of place on the promotion list."

It appears that the vacancy in the office of professor of chemistry, mineralogy and geology, to which the officer was appointed, did not occur until Oct. 17, 1928, on which date he accepted the appointment to that office. At the time he sought the appointment, at the time it was tendered to him, and at the time he accepted it, the following provision of paragraph 1 c, AR 605-145, of May 16, 1927, was in effect: "c. An officer will not be transferred—(1) From a promotion list to a non promotion-list branch, or vice versa * * *."

Accordingly, the Judge Advocate General opined that the date of the professor's present rank of lieutenant colonel is that upon which the office of professor vested, Oct. 17, 1928.

REP. FRENCH GIVES UP POST TO DEVOTE TIME TO PAY COMMITTEE.
"BECAUSE OF his exceedingly heavy duties in connection with the Joint Pay Committee," Representative Burton L. French (Rep. Idaho), resigned from the Committee on Memorials of the House of Representatives, of which he was the chairman. Mr. French, who is vice chairman of the Pay Committee, and chairman of the Navy Department appropriations sub-committee, states in his letter of resignation that "the exceedingly heavy program in connection with the work on the Joint Pay Committee, together with my work as a member of the Appropriations Committee compels me to take this course." With a like determination on the part of the other members of the joint committee to accomplish something in the question of service pay, solution of the problem would not be far off.

ORGANIZATION PARTIES RESTRICTED IN PANAMA CANAL DEPT.
THE FOLLOWING General Order (No. 56) under the heading "Organization Beer Parties," was recently issued from the Headquarters, Panama Canal Department, by command of Maj. Gen. George LeR. Irwin:
"1. The holding of so-called 'beer parties' by organizations of this command is prohibited.

"2. This restriction does not prohibit the holdings of picnics, outings or similar activities provided the use of beer or other intoxicants is not allowed, and that the provisions of Mimeograph Letter No. 106, these headquarters, Aug. 24, 1928, are complied with."

APPROVE NEW INFANTRY REGIMENTAL ORGANIZATION
MAJ. GEN. STEPHEN O. FUQUA, the Chief of Infantry, announces that the new regimental Infantry war strength organization has been approved.

The new organization increases the number of automatic rifles in the squad from one to two, the number of caliber .30 machine guns in the battalion machine-gun company from 12 to 16, and adds a regimental machine-gun company of 16 caliber .30 machine guns. The howitzer company has been replaced by the newly-created cannon company in which the number of 37-mm guns and 75-mm Infantry mortars have been increased from 3 to 8.

The new organization has for its objective increase in firepower and flexibility, utilizing our present standardized weapons and equipment, with a minimum increase in personnel.

GEN. SUMMERALL THANKS COMMITTEE
BEFORE he left Washington, Gen. Charles P. Summerall tactfully wrote each member of the Senate and House Military Committees, expressing his appreciation of their generous cooperation during the four years he served as Chief of Staff. It was a gracious act on the part of the retiring official, and called forth expressions of appreciation from the members of Congress. Differences of opinion naturally arose without enmity and with no permanent break in personal relations.

As he stated in his annual report, Gen. Summerall regretted that no action had been taken in the matter of increased pay and promotion reform. However, Committee members say that he established a foundation and from it they expect to erect the structure which will be satisfactory to the Army.

USS MAYFLOWER RECOMMISSIONED: TO REPLACE NIAGARA.
THE USS Mayflower, which for 27 years served as the yacht for the President of the United States, will be recommissioned about Feb. 15, 1931, for survey duty in the Caribbean, to replace the USS Niagara, which will be decommissioned for disposal.

Recommissioning work will be accomplished at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, where the Mayflower has been out of commission since June 5, 1929. Four times the Mayflower was offered for sale, but the bids received have been rejected by the Navy Department, and in April, 1930, the Department withdrew the proud old yacht from the sale list and placed her in a decommissioned status with a view toward recommissioning her if necessary.

The work of recommissioning the Mayflower will be directed by Capt. C. M. Austin, USN, present commanding officer of the Niagara. When Capt. Austin assumes command of the Mayflower, he will experience the pleasure of his tour on board, for from July, 1910, to April, 1911, as Lieutenant (junior grade), USN, he was a watch and division officer attached to the Mayflower, with additional duties as one of the naval aides on the staff of the late President William Howard Taft.

GEN. GULICK TO GO TO PHILIPPINES AND HAWAII
MAJ. GEN. JOHN W. GULICK, Chief of Coast Artillery, will leave on an inspection tour in the early part of February, 1931, inspecting the Coast Artillery Units in the Philippines, and on his return, Hawaii. When Gen. Gulick arrives in the United States he will have completed inspection of all Coast Artillery posts. He will be away for about three and a half months.

BILL TO DISCONTINUE COMPULSORY MILITARY TRAINING
A BILL prohibiting military training from being made compulsory to students in any educational institution, with the exception of military schools, has been introduced by Representative George A. Walsh (Rep.) of Pennsylvania, and referred to the House Committee on Military Affairs. The bill further provides that no officer or any other person under Government employ be allowed to instruct in military training in a school requiring such military training as a prerequisite for graduation or for any other reason.

SENATORS MORROW AND DAVIS ON SERVICE COMMITTEES
THE Army will hail with satisfaction the assignment of Dwight W. Morrow, Senator from New Jersey, to membership on the Senate Military Committee. Mr. Morrow's intense interest in National Defense, his service as chairman of the board which was responsible for the five-year air program, and his knowledge of foreign affairs, particularly fit him to deal with legislation affecting the welfare of the land establishment. The Army knows, moreover, that the new Senator from New Jersey will make a thorough study before announcing a decision, and this is what is desired in view of the number of proposals, some of them hastily prepared, which are put before the committee for consideration. Moreover, there is nothing of the bureaucrat in Mr. Morrow, and it may be safely stated that he will consider the interests of the Army as a whole in connection with any pending matter.

The new Senator from Pennsylvania, ex-Secretary of Labor Davis, has been assigned to membership on the Senate Naval Committee. Mr. Davis has not publicly displayed interest in naval affairs, and probably he will be primarily concerned with labor conditions. But he is also expected to manifest a keen interest in the enlisted personnel, and especially to see that they, as well as the commissioned branch, receive proper compensation.

ARMY AND NAVY URGED TO INCREASE COMMODITY RESERVES
THE War and Navy Departments are being urged to increase their commodity reserves to maximum peace time limits in view of the present low commodity prices of raw materials, it was made known by Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (Rep.) of Lowell, Mass., in a letter to Secretary of War Hurley and Secretary of the Navy Adams.

"It would seem that with the extremely low commodity prices now prevailing in the raw materials markets, this would be an excellent opportunity to increase all strategic and essential commodity reserves to their full peace time limits," Representative Rogers pointed out. If this were done now, it was argued, it would not only result in great economic savings to the Government, but it would be obviously favorable to the reestablishment of confidence in many branches of industry which would be materially assisted by such buying.

ADM. SIMS' CRITICISM AROUSES COMMENT

MILD discussion was aroused in naval circles here by the published reports of an "attack" made by Rear Adm. William S. Sims, ret., on the selection of officers for the higher naval commands. In a lecture at Boston Dec. 1, the admiral again expressed his views, and he holds decided ones, on the value of the War College courses and according to press dispatches charged that in some instances appointments to high commands had been made for political and social reasons.

Stressing the value of the training at the War College he stated that every time a graduate was appointed to an important post it raised the morale of the service. Continuing he said: "But have we always appointed these men to chief commands? We have not. Sometimes they appoint a man who sits next to the dealer. They have appointed men for political and social reasons who have never had any ambition to go to the War College. That has been done twice with the fleet. There has never been a Naval War College man who has gone as a superintendent of the Naval Academy. That is something the people ought to understand."

FOUR NAVAL OFFICERS SELECTED FOR ENGINEERING DUTY ONLY

FOUR officers of the line of the Navy were selected by the board convened last week to assign officers to engineering duty only. Although provision was made for the transfer of a maximum of five officers annually, the first board under the newly approved arrangement for engineering duty only assignment picked but four officers from the applications received. The officers chosen were: Comdr. Leo L. Lindley, Lt. Comdr. Roger W. Paine, Lt. Comdr. Lybrand P. Smith, and Lt. Comdr. Howard Jeans. Upon approval by the Secretary of the Navy of the board's findings, the officers were assigned to duty under the Bureau of Engineering, and may be promoted from now on as extra numbers in grade.

LT. COMDR. CARR APPOINTED AIDE TO SEC. JAHNCKE

LT. COMDR. T. DEWITT CARR, USN, has been appointed aide to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke. Comdr. Carr fills the post which was vacated two months ago and since then has remained open. During his career in the Navy, Comdr. Carr has served aboard the President's yacht Mayflower, has been aide to the White House, on the staff of the Commander, Scouting Fleet and of Battleship Division Three, Battle Fleet. He is a native of West Virginia, and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1916.

Chester Completes Trials

THE USS Chester, which has returned from a shakedown cruise in Mediterranean waters and has joined Light Cruiser Division 5 of the Scouting Fleet, held her final trials Dec. 2 off Chesapeake Bay. The Chester is the last of five 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers now in commission to undergo the rigid tests. Those which have completed their final trials are the Salt Lake City, Pensacola, Northampton, and Houston.

The final trials of the Chester included a full power trial followed by a special steering and maneuvering test to determine the ruggedness of the ship's rudder. After the trials, the Chester was docked at the Navy Yard, Norfolk, for an examination of the rudder, and as soon as practicable thereafter will proceed to the Navy Yard, New York, for routine post trial examination.

The Chester, commanded by Capt. A. P. Fairfield, USN, steamed, during her cruise in the Mediterranean, at full speed to offer assistance to the earthquake stricken city of Stromboli, for which the United States Government received the thanks and appreciation of the Italian Government.

Select Pensacola Class

THIRTY-THREE officers of the Navy have been selected to undergo the course of instruction at the Pensacola Flying School, to report Jan. 30, 1931. The class will be the first of officer group to come under the revised syllabus to be put into effect next year.

Revision of the syllabus as announced in the Army and Navy Journal last week, will produce a fewer number of more highly trained pilots for the Navy. The course is lengthened 26 hours and includes instruction in torpedo work, a study left out of the syllabus last year in order to speed up the output of the flying school to meet the demand for pilots.

During the coming year, only 445 officers and enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps, and reserve components of those services, will be given instruction at Pensacola. One hundred and thirty of these will be officers of the Navy; 185 will be enlisted men of the Navy and Marine Corps; and the remainder will be Marine officers and reservists. During 1930, 820 student pilots were at the Florida flying school. The nearing of completion of the 5-year procurement program makes the need of additional pilots not as great as before.

The officers who have received orders to report to Pensacola Jan. 30, are as follows:

Clash Looms as Spectacle

THE Army Mule and the Navy Goat will renew their historical football clash in the Yankee Stadium—the house Ruth built—a week from today. Before what is expected to be a million-dollar gate—the proceeds to go to the unemployed—these arch rivals will battle for the football championship of the Services for the first time since that memorable gridiron struggle at Soldiers' Field in Chicago which ended in a 21-to-21 tie.

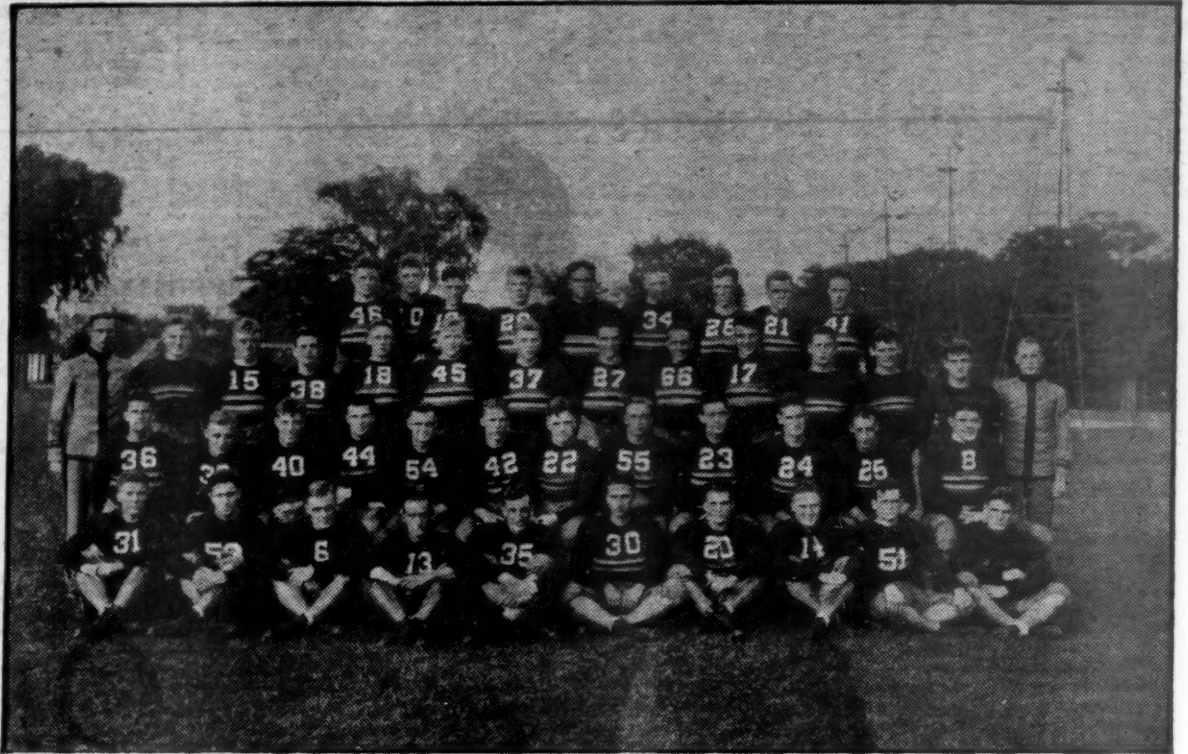

While sporting writers throughout the nation are generally in complete agreement in making the West Pointers favorites the age-old tradition that you never can tell the outcome of an Army-Navy clash because of repeated upsets of the dope bucket in the past assures the supporters of both elevens and the football fans throughout the Nation of a thrilling and exciting gridiron battle with all the color and atmosphere that can only exist when the Army and Navy clash.

On comparative scores Army appears to be fully three touchdowns better than their friendly rivals from the banks of the Severn. As demonstrated so many times this year and in past football seasons, however, comparative scores mean nothing.

It was only a few weeks ago when Harvard sprang the biggest upset of the season to defeat Yale 12 to 0 when the record of the Eli indicated it was at least three touchdowns better than the Crimson. In other words anything can happen in a Harvard-Yale clash and anything can happen in an Army-Navy game. And frequently does.

That is what makes it the contest it is. Navy, while admittedly the underdog, knows it has a chance and a good (Please turn to Page 327)

Army Coach "Tank Man"

NAVY may see some significance in the fact that Army's head coach, Maj. Ralph I. Sasse, USA, has had a great deal of experience commanding tanks.

Maj. Sasse, who was graduated from the US Military Academy in 1916, was during his cadet days an end on the football team. During the World War, he commanded a battalion of heavy tanks in France, seeing considerable action particularly on Sept. 27 and 28, 1918, when he made an attack on the tunnel system of the Hindenburg line at Bellicourt. The battalion of tanks led the attack of the Second Corps composed of the 27th and 30th Divisions.

The Army coach is a graduate of the Cavalry School, a distinguished graduate of the Command and Staff School and is on the General Staff eligible list. For six years, preceding this season, he was end coach at West Point, returning every year on special detail during the football season.

NAVY PLAYS PENN STATE

The Naval Academy is scheduled to play Pennsylvania State College at Philadelphia this afternoon; and with the exception of the Army-Navy tilt, a post season game, it is Navy's final clash of the season.

Navy has won five games, this season, losing four. Points scored, 122, and scored by other teams, 98. Penn State has engaged in nine frays to date, winning only three, with two ties and four defeats. It would seem from this that Navy has more than an even break to add another victory to its string.

Salvation Army Grateful

By COMMISSIONER WILLIAM PEART

of the Salvation Army Headquarters, New York City.

THE Salvation Army is deeply grateful to the Army and Navy for this latest mark of their confidence in selecting it as the medium for disbursing the proceeds of the game to be played in New York on Dec. 13. We have always endeavored to serve the fighting forces in every possible way consistent with our sphere of activities. This latest duty placed upon us will be discharged to the best of our ability.

The Salvation Army's ordinary financial scheme cannot of necessity make any provision for expenditures arising from abnormal circumstances. Yearly budgets are framed for every phase of the work and are compiled in the most economical way. When any national emergency arises in which the Salvation Army feels it is its duty to take part, special appeals are made for money to cope with the extra financial strain. Thus it was that the Salvation Army found itself with only sufficient funds for its ordinary upkeep—in fact we were nearly $50,000, over-spent on last year's budget—when the present unemployment crisis and the distress became insistent.

Applicants for Relief

A month ago, we found ourselves overwhelmed with applicants for relief. Hungry men and women knocked at our doors, the family welfare departments reported a great increase in the number of applicants, employment bureaus became thronged with searchers for work—something had to be done and quickly. A conference was called on Oct. 24 and within four hours of that conference, the first free food depots were opened in New York City, and that night some hundreds were fed. These stations have increased until today we have 14 of them in Greater New York, supplying over 14,000 meals daily. The family welfare department has been considerable enlarged and is now caring for nearly 2,000 families (Please turn to Page 334)

THE ARMY-NAVY FOOTBALL GAME

DECEMBER 13TH

Navy Coaches

NAVY can boast of a formidable line up of coaches for this year's team. This is the fifth consecutive year that W. A. "Bill" Ingram has been head coach of the Navy football team. He was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1919 and was one of its outstanding football luminaries for three years, 1916, 1917, and 1918. In 1918 he won a berth on Walter Camp's second team.

Bill Ingram has had wide and varied coaching experience. In 1920 and 1921 he was coach of and played on the Pacific Fleet team. In 1922 he coached at William and Mary College, and from 1923 to 1926 he coached at the University of Indiana.

E. E. "Rip" Miller, Navy line coach since 1926, also had a niche in the football hall of fame, being one of the seven "Mules" who cleared the way for Notre Dame's, and Knute Rockne's celebrated "Four Horsemen." He was a member of the Irish team in 1923, 1924 and 1925, playing tackle.

Miller has been a successful coach at the Academy, developing the championship line of 1926. Such stellar performers as Wickhorst, Eddy, Hardwick, Burke, and Cross, achieved recognition under his able tutelage.

Lt. T. J. Hamilton, USN, star athlete of Navy in recent years, returned this season to coach the backfield. In his Academy days, he was a tower of strength in the backfield of the football team. He also played baseball and basketball, being captain of the latter team in his first class year.

Lt. Paul Moret, USMC, end coach at the Academy this year, is a graduate of the class of '30. He played a bang-up style of football for three years, at one of Navy's flanks. He also captained Navy's undefeated boxing team of last year.

Adm. Robison Pleased

THE following letter from Rear Adm. S. S. Robison, superintendent of the United States Naval Academy, has been received by the Army and Navy Journal:

Mr. LeRoy Whitman, Editor, Army and Navy Journal, Architects Building, Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Whitman:

Replying to your letter of Nov. 24, I think that it is a very laudable idea of your paper to devote the issue of Dec. 6 to the forthcoming Army-Navy game for relief of unemployment. Such an issue will inform the two Services about many things connected with the teams and the game itself and should help increase the attendance.

When approached on the subject of a charity game by a representative of the press I made a statement that the Navy would be glad to have its team play a post-season game with any suitable opponent if necessary arrangements could be made. I am happy to say that the game has finally been brought about, and that we are to meet our traditional athletic rivals, the Army, at the Yankee Stadium on Dec. 13.

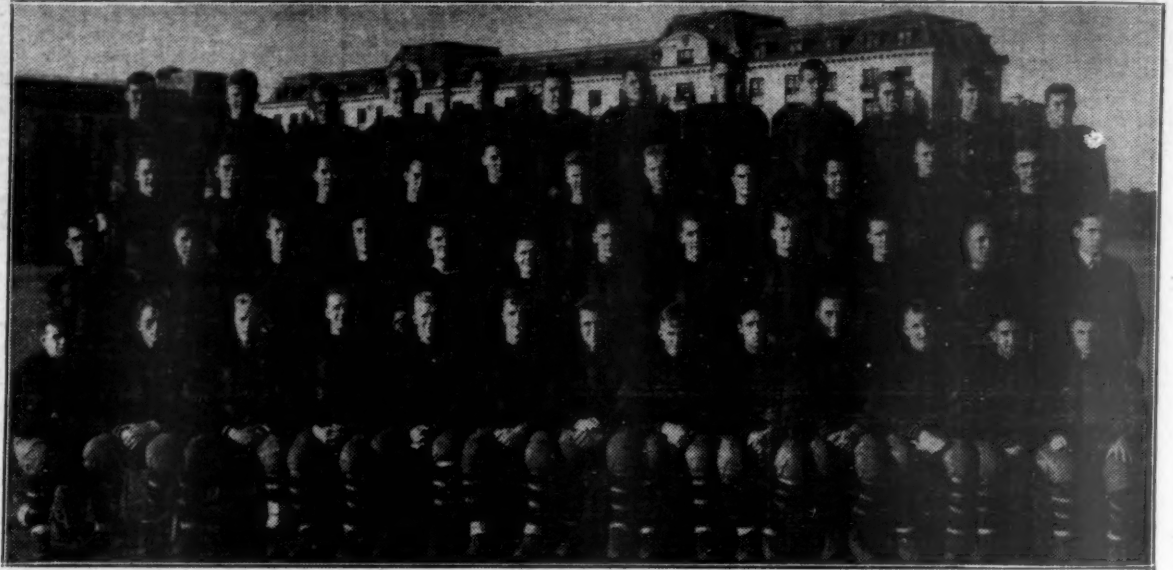

The proceeds of the game should produce a large sum of money, which I feel confident will be efficiently handled by the Salvation Army for the benefit of this worthy cause.

Thanking you for the interest taken in this game, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

S. S. ROBISON,
Rear Admiral, USN, Supt.

NAVY WINS OVER G. W., 20-0

The Naval Academy closed its home grid season on Farragut Field, Nov. 29, by booting George Washington University from Washington, D. C., 20 to 0, in an easy victory. The Middies used a reserve team during the first half of the game, 32 players going into action, including Kirkpatrick, who has been tending old Bill, the Navy Goat mascot. The reserves being unable to score, Navy was forced to call in nearly its full strength in the second half and scored three touchdowns, punctuating them with two extra points.

Hurley, scoring star of the day, "Slippery" Joe Tschirgi, a late starter in the fray, and Gannon led the team to victory with their very superior playing.

Going on the gridiron at the beginning of the second half, the Middies marched down the field for a touchdown from the kick-off.

Tom Hurley, who took "Bullet" Lou Kirm's position, led the Tar advance toward George Washington's goal line. Seven plays and three first downs put the ball 10 yards from the goal. Hurley took the ball over, after Gannon missed a touchdown by a bare foot on a reverse around end. Gannon made a pass to Byng, right end, for extra point.

Navy's next tally came in the fourth quarter. Three first downs, made possible by the flying feet of Joe Tschirgi, who was sent in to substitute for Gannon, placed the ball on the 1-yard mark. On the first attempt to go over Navy was stopped cold. Hurley, however, took the ball on the next play and went over for the third and final touchdown.

Service Teams in Benefit

THE All-Marine and Coast Guard teams meet on the gridiron today at 2 p. m. in Griffith Stadium, Washington, D. C., for the honor of their branches and for charity. As both teams appear evenly matched and seem equally confident a battle royal should result.

President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover lead the list of notables who are to attend. Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, will be present. The Senate and the House have adjourned for the afternoon so that the members will be able to attend. A large number of Washington's foreign diplomats will attend also.

The proceeds of the game are to be turned over to the District Committee for Unemployment, which is headed by Mr. Frederick A. Delano.

A cheering section of 1200 Marines will arrive in Washington at 12:30 p. m., from Quantico, headed by Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler. Before the game they will perform maneuvers on the field, forming the letter "H" in honor of President Hoover, the letters "CG," for the Coast Guard, as well as other figures.

NOTRE DAME DEFEATS ARMY

Last Saturday in a sea of mud, which was Soldier's Field, a great Army team went down in defeat before an equally great Notre Dame team by the margin of a single point, 7-6.

The undefeated Army team from the United States Military Academy was rated by Rockne as the one he feared most in the Ramblers' path to national honors. The game itself substantiated that belief.

For three periods the two teams battled scorelessly back and forth on a wet and slippery field. It was a clash in which the breaks counted. Notre Dame got the first break when Schwartz went off right tackle for 54 yards and a touchdown. His interference was perfect. Carideo kicked the extra point.

A moment later Army got a break. Carideo's punt from his own 17-yard line was blocked by Miller. The ball rolled into the end zone where King fell on it for a touchdown. Broshaus, who was rushed in to dropkick, attempted to make the tying point, but before he could get the ball away a number of Notre Dame men smothered him.

A few minutes later the game ended without either team threatening.

Six times when Notre Dame made a bid to score, the Army defense stiffened and checked the offensive. The whole Kaydet team played inspired football all through the contest, the work of Stecker being particularly bright.

NAVY HARRIERS WIN, 21-34

The Naval Academy cross-country team defeated Lafayette in their last match of the season by a score of 21-34. This final victory marked the completion of the Middle harriers' second successive perfect season. Ward Hardman, Navy, set a new record for the five-mile course.

This match marked the first defeat of Hugh Masterson in four years, both Hardman and Gibson, Navy, finishing ahead of him.

NA PLEBE GRID CAPTAIN

The members of the Naval Academy plebe football team elected John C. Hampson of Brooklyn, N. Y., captain, just before their final game of the season, with Hun School. Hampson has played brilliantly at the fullback position all through the season. He weighs 190 pounds and is an exceptionally dangerous triple-threat man.

SATURDAY, DEC. 6, 1930

"Congress should not delay unduly the rectification of existing pay schedules in the Army and Navy."—INDIANAPOLIS STAR.

CONGRESS cannot ignore these facts in connection with the proposed increase of pay:

The Secretaries of War and Navy urge its adoption because the morale and efficiency of the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps demand it.

The American Federation of Labor urges its adoption because the policy of that great organization is for a living wage.

The Chambers of Commerce of the United States urge its adoption because they know the scale of the Services has not advanced comparably to the increase in the cost of living and the jump in pay in other lines of endeavor.

The Press of the country urges its adoption because it is familiar with the grave difficulties officers and men stagger under as a result of the small and inadequate pay they receive.

In a word, the situation is this: The Administration, Business, Labor, the Press, and all Veteran Societies, aware of service conditions, are demanding their correction. Can Congress hesitate in the face of this united public sentiment? We believe not!

PRESIDENT HOOVER in his annual message: "Substantial progress has been made during the year in national peace and security. * * * Our Army and Navy are being maintained at a high state of efficiency, under officers of high training and intelligence, supported by a devoted personnel of the rank and file."

Secretary of War Hurley, in his annual report to President: "The depletion of the other arms (by transfers to Air Corps) must stop or else our program of national defense must undergo reorganization and the missions assigned the Regular Army by the national defense act be modified. * * * I feel that increased pay for the Army is a vital subject requiring proper adjustment. The situation confronting the junior officers is particularly to be deplored."

Gen. Summerall, chief of staff, in his annual report: "Regarded solely from the viewpoint of its sufficiency to serve as an agency for facilitating a general mobilization, the foregoing review of our current military activity is sufficient to demonstrate that the strength of our Regular Army is entirely inadequate. * * * The unsatisfactory condition of the Army in respect to pay and promotion is so well known as to require no discussion in this report."

Gen. Ireland, surgeon general of the Army, in his annual report: "In my opinion nothing can be more destructive of morale than the discontent prompted by inadequate pay."

Who is right, the President or his subordinates? We know, and so do the Services, and we rather suspect the press has a pretty good idea of where the truth lies.

THE PRESIDENT did not mention the pay proposal in his annual message.

We had no expectation that he would do so. But we feel that had he adopted an unalterable attitude in opposition, he would have told his Cabinet officers to omit reference to pay from their reports. He directed no such omission. On the other hand, he permitted these spokesmen to dwell upon the importance of an increase to the morale and efficiency of their respective commands. To them has gone the report of the Interdepartmental Pay and Promotion Board, and the text of the pay and promotion bills accompanying it. Consequently, they are familiar with the recommendations of the Board, and have permitted them, without criticism, to be submitted to the Congressional Pay Committee for its consideration and guidance. It follows that Congress will assume that the Administration is back of the proposed pay increase. Any bill passed by both Houses will be referred to the Departments for their comment. Undoubtedly, they will advise the President to sign. We feel, therefore, now that the responsibility for the legislation, for its enactment or failure, will rest squarely upon Congress, and particularly upon the Joint Pay Committee and the Service committees. We would not like to face the country by inaction in view of the aroused public feeling that prevails.

THE SECRETARY OF WAR particularly deplored the pay situation confronting junior officers. In this expression, he gave utterance to knowledge which for some years has permeated, not only the Services, but the country as well. A policeman in New York draws $3,000 per annum; a bachelor 2d Lieutenant or Ensign on field or sea duty, receives $1,719 per annum, and this includes pay and allowances. A policeman has no social obligations; an officer of the Army and Navy and Marine Corps, is compelled to discharge them. A policeman has no expenses beyond those of a personal or family character. An officer is ordered to pack up and proceed to another station at a moment's notice, taking his family with him; he has to meet expenses in connection with line of duty, which are disallowed by the Comptroller General; he has to pay out of his pocket for entertainment in consequence of associations made necessary by his government commission. A mere reference to this situation shows that the Secretary of War is right in deploring the situation of the junior officers. They should, they must have relief.

A CONTEST OF ABSORBING interest not only to the Services but to the country takes place in New York a week from today. In the presence of depression, and in order to do their part in providing relief for the cold and hungry, the athletic associations of West Point and Annapolis have submerged their differences, and the football teams representing the academies will struggle for the inter-service laurel. In authorizing this match, the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps are merely observing that policy of helpfulness which always has been exercised in behalf of our people. The Salvation Army has reported the sale of practically all the seats. The fund collected, therefore, will be large and will do its share toward the alleviation of misery.

We shall hope, as a result of the game, that the negotiations will bring about an agreement for the annual resumption of football games between the Academies. They are valuable in promoting a healthy rivalry between the Services and in calling the attention of the people to the splendid spirit which animates those who wear the uniform.

G. D. A. K.—There is no eligible list for promotion to Warrant Officer, U. S. Army, in existence at the present time as appointments to this grade have been discontinued by law until by separations from the Service, the number of Warrant Officers drops to 600. When the number stabilizes, an eligible list will probably be compiled in the manner provided by Army regulations as was done in the past. At the present rate of attrition, it is expected that the number of Warrant Officers will drop to 600 some time in 1933.

IN THE JOURNAL 60 YEARS AGO

Gen. Logan, having taken his fill of Army reform, conceives the idea that he has a mission to the Navy. He was evidently nervous lest some one should get the start of him, for the members of Congress were hardly settled in their seats before he introduced the following bill: "Be it enacted, etc., That the office of Admiral in the Navy be, and the same is hereby abolished, there being now a vacancy in said office, and all laws and parts of laws creating said office shall, by virtue of this act, henceforth be held to be repealed. Sect. 2. And be it further enacted, That the office of Vice-Admiral in the Navy shall continue until a vacancy shall occur in the same, and no longer; and when such vacancy shall occur in said office, immediately thereupon all laws and parts of laws creating said office shall become inoperative, and shall, by virtue of this act, henceforward be held to be repealed." Mr. Hale objected, and Mr. Logan thereupon gave notice that he would move on Monday next, Dec. 12, 1870, to suspend the rules and pass the bill.

The Grand Army of the Republic are making an effort to provide for the necessities of the Union Home and School for soldiers' and sailors' orphans in New York, and a fair for the object will be held at the 71st regiment armory, corner Broadway and Thirty-fifth street, under its auspices, from Dec. 15 to 25. We commend this worthy enterprise to the favor of the members of the National Guard and others of our subscribers resident in New York.

The report of the Surgeon General shows that with an Army strength of 29,022 white and 3,407 colored troops, the whole number of men on the sick list during the year was 62,580, or 2,156 per thousand soldiers.

"Fly-Away" Boeings

Seattle, Wash.—Following the departure of three Army air corps lieutenants from Seattle with new Boeing P-12C pursuit planes for delivery to Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich., Capt. H. M. Elmdorf was expected this week by officials of the Boeing Airplane Company at Seattle. Capt. Elmdorf was en route from Washington D. C., to take delivery of another new Boeing pursuit plane.

Lts. R. E. Culbertson, B. L. Boatner and E. O'Donnell were the three Selfridge Field officers who flew from Seattle with the newly completed planes.

Officials of the Seattle aircraft plant reported that the production program called for the delivery of 20 P-12Cs to the Army air corps during the month of December.

Cost of the Military

COMMENTING on the grouping of the cost of maintaining the Army and Navy with the expense of veterans' relief by President Hoover in his budget message, and in the statements in the press that 41 cents of every dollar spent by the United States goes for "military functions," the Washington Star has ably presented the matter in its true light.

"The Commander in Chief of the Republic's armed forces would have done better to speak of it as the annual premium on Uncle Sam's life insurance," says the Star. "That is exactly what it is—or, at least that part of the total which is spent on the Army and Navy. In addition to the $920,687,757 allotted to our land and sea establishments, the aggregate for 'military functions,' includes roundly $700,000,000 for veterans' relief."

This payment, which the Star calls the "cost of unpreparedness in past wars," is a tribute not only to our ex-service men, but is a tribute "to America's incurable habit of remaining chronically unready for unexpected international emergencies," the Star states.

Navy Selection Board

WITH the line selection board convening on Monday, probably more interest is attached to its deliberations and its recommendations are more eagerly looked for than at any occasion within recent years.

For one reason, it is extremely probable that the board will go down much further than it has during the past five years, and the extent it does go down the list in selecting officers will have a most immediate effect on the chances for promotion of officers just below, who either must be promoted in the next five years or retire for age or service in grade.

By law, there are seven commanders to four captains. Therefore if selection is to be effective, something like 57 per cent of the commanders at the top should be selected for promotion to captain and 43 per cent retired.

Over the past five years, the selection board has considered 137 commanders, and selected 109—an average of 80 per cent. The selection ranged from 93 per cent in 1926, when 38 commanders were picked from 41 considered, to last year when 31 officers were considered and 16 promoted to captain—an average of 53 per cent. This does not include selections of extra numbers, or officers who had previously been passed over.

In classes 1906-7-8 and 9 of the Naval Academy, there are now 312 commanders on active duty, exclusive of extra numbers and officers previously passed over. The class of 1909 will retire on June 30, 1937, unless selected, so that there are 312 commanders who must be selected or retired before June 30, 1937. It is estimated that there will be vacancies for 157 in the rank of captain prior to that date.

Therefore but 50 per cent of the commanders of the classes of 1906 to 1909 can be promoted to captain, under existing law.

It will be seen that if this year the board does not consider 36 commanders who have not been considered before, in selecting 18 for promotion, and that next year if the 50 per cent average is not maintained, then in two or three years and especially later on, in 1936 and 1937, officers will lose out solely because of more rigid selection.

If selections are made as follows over the next seven years, this will not be so:

Year.	No. Selected.	No. Considered.
1931	18	36
1932	21	42
1933	22	44
1934	21	43
1935	23	46
1936	25	51
1937	24	50

Similarly, there are about 14 lieutenant commanders to seven commanders and therefore about 50 per cent should be selected, and the other half retired.

During the past five years, however, 215 lieutenant commanders have been considered for promotion and 173 selected—an average of 80 per cent. The selection ranged from 90 per cent in 1926 (56 out of 62), to 65 per cent last year (26 of 40).

In the Naval Academy classes of 1910, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, there are now 582 lieutenant commanders on the active list. The class of 1916 will retire on June 30, 1937, unless selected for promotion. It is estimated that 341 lieutenant commanders will be selected for promotion, therefore the percentage of selection should be about 58 per cent.

Members of the class of 1911 are especially concerned with the choice of this year's board. There are at the present time 113 lieutenant commanders from the top of the list down to the junior members of the 1911 class. It is probable that there will be 54 vacancies in the rank of commander prior to June 30, 1932, the date on which members of the class will retire if not selected, and therefore this year's and next year's board must consider all of the 113 officers in picking 54 or else some of the officers will retire without having been considered.

If the board meeting next week, however, selects none of the class of 1912, it is estimated that 99 officers of this class must be considered next year, with only 37 selections to be made, and the balance, 62, will be retired.

is particularly anxious to have something effective done. The Senate feels that the responsibility for inaction in this matter rests upon the House, and especially upon the House Military Committee. It is declared that the "unyielding attitude" of Mr. James is blocking the adoption of this much needed legislation. Mr. James, whose return to health is a cause of enthusiastic satisfaction to the members of his committee, asserts he is as anxious for Army promotion reform as the Senate, but he will not agree to the principles expressed in the Senate bill. A further complication lies in the assumption of control over the promotion question by the Reed Pay Committee.

With respect to naval promotion reform, it is frankly stated that nothing can be done because of the attitude of the Reed Committee. The Naval Committee of the House, as is true also of the Military Committee, will not have a calendar day, and if consideration of the promotion bill were asked under the unanimous consent agreement, there is no doubt that objection would be offered. It is possible that as a result of the conferences which will take place between leaders in the two Houses some kind of an agreement will be reached, and it is to that end that friends of the services are addressing themselves.

The usual sessions of the regular Service Committees will be held during the session, but that they will do more than investigate is doubtful. Representative Williamson, of South Dakota, has introduced a bill providing for the creation of a department of National Defense.

The measure was referred to his Committee on Expenditures in Executive Departments. He has announced that Congressman James will be one of the witnesses he will call. Mr. Williamson asserted a long study of the project will be necessary before intelligent action can be taken. Secretary of the Navy Adams declared his sympathy with any move to establish a unified department of national defense, but expressly disapproved the consolidation of the Army and Navy aviation establishments. Like disapproval was expressed by the Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air, Mr. Ingalls.

The question of the creation of such a Department will arise in the House Military Committee, where it is expected an investigation will be made, at the instance of Mr. James, to determine what changes should be made in the National Defense Act.

At its executive session on Thursday, the House Military Committee decided to withhold decision as to the Winter's program until it had learned what would happen in the case of Muscle Shoals. The present Conference Committee on this matter is unable to reach an agreement, and probably will be discharged. If so, Congressman James, in all probability, will be appointed as Chairman of the new House Conference, and his time will be taken up in an effort to adjust this question and thus avoid a special session.

Army Favored to Win

chance to win, and every Navy supporter throughout the world will carry such a hope in his breast when the kick-off zooms up in Yankee Stadium.

The West Pointers are certain to depend upon their hard charging line and plunging backs to gain victory. They have employed this method of attack in all of their contests this season. With a powerful line unequaled in the East and only matched by a few rivals throughout the Nation Army has a sturdy defense that will require all that Navy can muster to pierce it.

Army proved its mettle against Notre Dame. That famous coach of the Ramblers, after the clash at Chicago last Saturday declared Army had one of the finest lines he had ever seen.

Another factor in Army's favor this year is that there is no outstanding backfield star as in other years when Elmer Oliphant, Lighthouse Harry Wilson and Chris Cagle all threatened touchdowns every time they were given the ball.

This year every Army backfield man is a dangerous threat and Navy cannot concentrate on one man such as it has been able to do before. They must watch four men instead of one and at the same time withstand the assaults of probably one of the three hardest charging lines in the country.

Navy, however, has always been known for its heady football. They have frequently defeated superior teams on paper by smart and quick football. They will certainly have some surprises for this contest.

In "Bullet Joe" the Navy has a backfield ace who will constantly be a threat to the Army defense. He is fast, a hard runner and an inspiration to his teammates. And he is ably supported by an intelligent line and a fast and versatile backfield.

The Army is certain to cover Kirm but every other team has covered him this year and yet he has been one of the most consistent ground gainers in the country behind a line that frequently did not hold until he could get under way.

Although the odds favor the Mule, the Goat has a chance, and, as said before, in a Yale-Harvard game or an Army-Navy Game anything can happen and it usually does.

To Transfer 12 to CC

TRANSFER of twelve officers from the line to the construction corps is contemplated by the Navy Department.

Applications from officers of the Navy for such assignment are requested. They must be received before Jan. 19, 1931.

INSPIRED by the enthusiasm of Lt. "Bill" Dean, an officers' bowling league has been organized, with four teams striving for first place. The teams number four men each and bear the following designations: Regimental Headquarters, Post Staff, 2nd Battalion, and Spare Parts. Odds favor Headquarters and 2nd Battalion.

Mrs. L. K. Bain is the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Rodman.

One of the finest events of the Fall was the dance of the Pi Delta Phi, a sorority at Utah University. This was the pledge dance. Miss Jane Rice, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. C. H. Rice, and Miss Jean McBride, daughter of Chap. and Mrs. James L. McBride are among the pledges.

Mrs. R. E. G. Opie recently entertained eight friends from the city and the post at a dinner-bridge.

The friends of Capt. and Mrs. C. H. Karlstadt will be happy to learn that Celeste, their daughter, after a short sojourn in Letterman General Hospital, is pronounced well on the road to perfect health.

Capt. and Mrs. C. K. Krams on Nov. 21 gave a dinner to 12 at their quarters, in honor of Lt. and Mrs. B. B. Wilkes, who are soon to leave this post.

Before the officers' dance on the evening of Nov. 23, Capt. and Mrs. Richard Allen entertained in honor of their daughter, Miss Margaret. Covers were laid for 36 guests.

Mrs. J. A. Gillespie entertained at bridge suppers on the evenings of Nov. 20 and 21. Table prizes were awarded at the first party and at the second Mrs. L. K. Bain won the first prize awarded the ladies, and Capt. R. O. Snyder, the gentleman's prize.

Maj. B. L. Carroll, instructor with Utah National Guard, and his family have been assigned quarters on this post.

One of the happy features of Thanksgiving Day here was that practically all the officers of this post, together with their families, were guests of the several organizations on that day.

Maj. and Mrs. Bechtold will give a breakfast and ride next Sunday. If the weather is stormy, the ride will take place in the riding hall.

One of the most popular sub-debs on the post, Barbara Bechtold, was hostess at a birthday dinner last week. Her guests were Kate Foster, Jack and Una Caldwell, Patty and Soupy Field, Jane and Nancy Gallier, Ralph Rhodes, Rachel Ellis, Catherine and Buddy Sabini. They attended the movies later.

stationed at the Army Motor Transport School, Camp Holabird, Md.

The garrison, Fort Lewis, Wash., welcomed to the post in the traditional Army manner another bride and groom last week, Lt. and Mrs. Edward Sedgwick Berry. Lt. and Mrs. Berry were given a ride around the post on the Field Artillery caisson, the horses drawing the caisson being ridden by Army officers with Capt. Ray H. Lewis in charge of the ride. A number of automobiles carrying members of the garrison followed the caisson on its rough trip over the post.

Lt. and Mrs. Berry were married Nov. 15 in Portland, Ore., in the First Baptist Church, Dr. T. J. Villers officiating. Only members of the immediate families were present. Miss Grace Mavis of Portland was the bride's only attendant and Edward Taylor of Portland acted as best man. Mrs. Berry before her marriage was Miss Johanna Marie Peterson and is a sister of Victor W. Peterson of Portland. Mrs. Berry is a graduate of Brown's College,

Naval Reserve Notes

DEFINITE decision to modernize the USS Dubuque and USS Paducah has been made by the Bureau of Navigation. The two vessels, assigned to training duty with units at Detroit and Duluth, will be converted from coal burning to oil burners.

During the past two months about 250 letters have been written by the Bureau of Navigation to officers who are due for promotion, but who are ineligible through failure to perform the required 60 days' training duty in grade. The officers receiving these letters have been urged to take the required training duty with or without pay, in order to become eligible for examination for promotion and to avoid being discharged on July 1, 1932, under the three-year requirement of the Naval Reserve Regulations. In the near future, the Bureau contemplates a change in the Naval Reserve Regulations reducing the period to qualify by examination for promotion when due, from three years to one year.

An officer of the Naval Reserve may only serve on a summary court-martial board, when on active duty during war or a national emergency, the Judge Advocate General of the Navy has recently announced. A case arose in which a reserve officer, on active duty, served on a board at which the defendant was convicted. The Secretary of the Navy threw out the finding of the court-martial board, holding that the board was illegally convened. It was further held, however, that the man could be tried again on the same charge, no double jeopardy being involved.

Col. Stayton Heads ORA

THE unanimous election of Col. E. M. Stayton, 110th Engineers, Mo. NG, as president of the Officers Reserve Association of Kansas City, Mo., on Nov 5 has knitted together, for the first time in the history of the Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserve and the Regular Army. These three components have been working together in Kansas City, but to Col. Stayton belongs the credit of welding them into one compact, single-purposed unit.

Col. Stayton has an enviable service record and has many times exhibited his organization ability. He is the first National Guard officer to be elected president of the Organized Reserves in Kansas City, and the first in the United States to be elected to such a post.

in the enlisted force and a reduction in the number of vessels to be retained in commission. These changes involved a reduction in the estimated requirements for 1932 of approximately $7,000,000. However, with a fleet much reduced in number of vessels, provision is made for 1932 for a reasonable increase in the enlisted complement of vessels and for relative increases in the items connected with the maintenance, repair, and operation of vessels, with the view that the efficiency of the personnel and of the vessels of the smaller active fleet may be further increased. After providing for these and other increases, the net decrease for ordinary operating expenses is $4,446,000. The decrease for modernization of battle-ships is $7,400,000, appropriations having previously been made to complete the modernization of all vessels so far authorized. For construction of vessels the decrease is $21,100,000. A large unexpended balance accrued under the appropriations for ship construction because of the delay in the program pending the result of negotiations for modification of the Washington Treaty. The construction of those vessels now authorized which are permitted by the London Treaty should now go forward without delay. The cash withdrawals for new ship construction during 1932 is estimated at $51,600,000 and for 1931 at $44,200,000. Seven of the light cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and the aircraft carrier authorized by the act approved Feb. 13, 1929, will be under construction by the close of the current fiscal year. Under the terms of the London Treaty, and if this Government so elects, three more 8-inch gun cruisers may be laid down; one in the calendar year 1933, one in 1934, and one in 1935. The remaining five cruisers authorized by the act may not, under the terms of the treaty, be constructed with armament of 8-inch guns.

The estimates for 1932 provide additional funds necessary to carry forward work on the aircraft carrier and seven of the cruisers authorized by the act of Feb. 3, 1929, and also the uncompleted light cruisers and submarines being constructed under prior authorization.

Air Service

There is requested for the air services of the Army and Navy, including their civilian components, a total of $29,361,000 for the procurement of new airplanes, their engines, spare parts, and accessories. I am also asking a total of $277,000 for similar purposes for the Coast Guard, Department of Commerce, and the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. These two sums contemplate the procurement of a total of not less than 727 airplanes.

With regard to the Army the estimates make provision for the procurement of at least 392 planes, which will provide an approximate total of 1,582 planes on hand and on order on June 30, 1932, leaving a possible shortage of 66 planes in the authorized total of 1,648. This is only an estimated shortage and may be substantially reduced by June 30, 1932. The National Guard now has its full component of 152 planes.

Concerning naval aviation the expansion program authorized by Congress provided for 1,000 planes and two rigid airships. The airplane program will be completed during the current fiscal year, so that provision is made in this Budget only for the procurement of replacement planes to the number of 277. The two rigid airships are now under contract and there is included in this Budget $1,675,000 for the completion of one and commencing the construction of the other.

In addition to the amounts which we are spending for the acquisition of aircraft, we are also spending large sums for lighting and equipping airways, for the inspection and licensing of commercial planes and pilots, and furnishing weather reports necessary to the carrying on of aerial navigation. For these purposes $10,375,000 is included in the estimates of the Weather Bureau of the Department of Agriculture. It is estimated that by the end of the fiscal year 1932 there will be about 19,500 miles of airways lighted and equipped.

Navy Priority List

FOLLOWING the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy that modernization of the battleships New Mexico, Mississippi and Idaho was the most essential legislative need facing the Navy at the present time, the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, meeting for the first time this session, on Thursday voted to report out Senate bill S. 4750, an identical bill to the one ordered reported from the House Committee last session. The measure will be reported to the Senate Monday, and early action will be pressed.

Following the modernization bill, Secretary of the Navy Adams listed a long number of bills or suggested bills, deemed essential or desirable to the Navy's welfare, in a priority list forwarded to Congress this week.

Increased pay was placed fourth on the list by the Secretary of the list of essential items. It was preceded by desired legislation authorizing construction of naval vessels under the London treaty, and provision for an experimental power plant for submarines.

The Navy and Marine Corps personnel bills, which have been pending before Congress for some years, were placed fourteenth and fifteenth on the list. Substitution for service in grade for age in grade retirements for Naval officers was placed fifth on the list.

Detroit Backs Services

CALLING for adequate national defense and higher pay for the services, the Council of National Defense of the Detroit Board of Commerce on Dec. 3, passed a resolution reiterating its previous endorsement on these vital problems. The board of directors of the Detroit board approved the Council's action. The resolution advocates the following:

1. Increase of pay for the Services,
2. Continuance of the Army and Navy quarters, barracks and hospital building program,
3. Modernization and construction of the ships authorized under the London Treaty,
4. Adequate appropriations for air equipment for the Army and Navy,
5. Increase of the enlisted personnel of the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps, to the strength required for national safety,
6. Adequate appropriations for the maintenance and training of the Reserve components of the Army and the Navy.

Army Transportation

hicles is this—unless the authority responsible for the movement of transport is held responsible for timely movements of materials required for the repair and replacement of motor vehicle equipment, motor transportation will quickly lose its power of mobility in the theatre of operations. To augment the flow of replacement materials from the Zone of the Interior to the shops and warehouses in the communications zone there is required prompt evacuation from the Zone of Combat to these same shops of all motor equipment that becomes unserviceable. Casualties among motor vehicles in the Combat Zone are naturally higher than in any other motor transport experience. This mass of unserviceable automotive equipment is a very valuable source of supply of serviceable unit assemblies, sub-assemblies and parts, quickly available by reclamation, repair and return to stock in the unit repair and replacement system. Rail and water transportation are the only practicable means of evacuating this heavy mass of unserviceable motor vehicle equipment. In the World War no responsibility for this evacuation rested upon railway transportation authorities. Large abandoned dumps of ruined trucks full of valuable and much needed unit assemblies and parts dotted the combat zone at the end of our one year of war, necessitating excessively large requisitions for replacements being sent back to the United States. Due to the great excess of such requisitions over commercial experience, the great lack of ship tonnage available for assignment to automotive supply, these requisitions were greatly reduced or absolutely ignored by transportation authorities in Washington. The net result was exhaustion of stocks necessary for the maintenance of urgently needed motor transport and consequently serious embarrassment of the military operations of the entire AEF. The complaints of the fighting armies in this regard were extremely bitter and directed erroneously toward motor transport repair and supply personnel.

with their diverse problems—rent, clothes, food, medical attention and other needs. Special employment bureaus have been established to deal with the ever increasing number whose most urgent necessity is work. Last week 581 were found situations by this department. The problem of homeless men looms very large and with the advent of cold weather is likely to be even more serious. Here we are adapting buildings for the housing of these unfortunates. One such institution for instance in the heart of Harlem will accommodate 400 colored men, and with this we hope to alleviate one of the most distressing features of the present crisis.

One of the sad developments is the increasing number of women of all ages, young and old, who for one reason or another have no home. Within a few days a new institution will be opened to accommodate these peculiarly

Financial Commitments

All the above has been done on faith. Heavy financial commitments are being incurred and the whole of the appropriations, designed to meet the requirements of an ordinary year ending September next, have been thrown into the present endeavor to serve the community. Ignoring Mrs. Glass' famous advice, we have not waited to catch our hare before we cooked it. Such is our faith in the generous public of America that we have unhesitatingly mortgaged our future.

The Army and Navy Game will enable us to frame a more comprehensive program, freeing us from financial embarrassment in this respect.

It is estimated that there are some 400,000 human beings in Greater New York affected by the unemployment situation. A careful investigation shows that around 60 per cent of applicants for food come from other cities, and the Winter has hardly set in. No one can definitely say what lies before us. The Salvation Army therefore has to frame a program for at least the next six months sufficiently elastic to cope with any situation that may arise. The money paid on Dec. 13 will be earmarked for that purpose, after expenditure already incurred has been met, and we shall ever remember in our administration that we are but the almoners of those generous citizens who honor the Salvation Army with their confidence, relieving distress wherever we find it, irrespective of race, color or creed.

grandfather, Capt. William Cloud, an officer of the Revolution.

Word was received at the War Department this week that Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, formerly deputy chief of staff, arrived at and assumed command of the Panama Canal Department Monday, Nov. 24.

Col. Edmund L. Butts, Inf., USA, has written a book, "The Keypoint of the Marne," which has been published by the George Banta Publishing Company. The Historical Section of the War Department reports in commenting on it, "The manuscript is an unusually vivid account of a defensive battle of an infantry regiment. It has definite historical value and it has tactical value as a very realistic study of a defensive battle."

Mr. Frank Lahm, father of Mrs. Frank Parker, of Paris, France, arrived Nov. 29 to be the guest of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, at Sheridan, Ill., and will remain for some time.

Nov. 30, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank

Parker entertained at luncheon, at their quarters, at Ft. Sheridan, Gov. and Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, Adm. and Mrs. W. S. Crosley, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Manus McCloskey, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Follansbee of Chicago, D. W. O. Hotchkiss and Col. and Mrs. R. J. Harkness of Houghton, Mich., and Mr. Frank Lahm.

Lt. and Mrs. Porter T. Gregory and niece Bernadine Rabidoux, who have been in Europe the past seven months, have returned to New York City, and are enroute to their new station, Ft. Amador.

Capt. A. W. Johnson, USN, who has been in Nicaragua supervising the recent Congressional Elections in that country, left Managua on Nov. 28, with Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Elvira, by airplane for Washington, D. C. They flew over the Pan American Airways from Managua at San Salvador and across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec to Vera Cruz, where they took the train to Mexico City to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brown, Jr., in that city. They expect to arrive in Washington about the middle of December.

IN THE SADDLE

The 110th Field Artillery poloists scored their second win of the season, Nov. 29, when they took the Fort Hoyle, 6th Artillery team, into camp, 15-8½, at the Pikesville Armory.

The visitors led until the second half, when lack of practice began to tell, and the home team began to forge ahead. The 110th sent in a new team at the beginning of the second half, which played a strong part in the victory.

The cramped area of the Pikesville Armory caused many unavoidable fouls, and this cut the score of both teams. Even so the playing was faster and sharper than on the previous Saturday, when the Quantico team was defeated.

The home artillerymen started the fourth period with added vigor. Capt. George Foote scored three goals in succession, then after Maj. Mowbray scored one, he scored another.

This pair staged a scoring match which was almost as interesting as the team match. Personal honors went to Maj. Mowbray, who scored one more goal than Capt. Foote, seven being his total for the game.

The Fort Hoyle team was held to one goal in the fourth stanza, but they attempted a valiant come-back in the fifth. Their three goals proved to be their last bid for victory, however, for the home team rifled in four more counters for themselves.

The final chukker found the weary visitors unable to check the fast riding 110th, who completed the victory with four more goals.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The promotion and supervision of Ft. Benning Polo is under the direction of a polo committee consisting of three members appointed by the Commandant of The Infantry School. Subject to his approval, this committee will promulgate polo policies and render all decisions on controversial matters among teams. The committee consists of the following: Maj. D. E. McCunniff, Inf., W. M. Hoge, Jr., CE, and Adrian St. John, CWS.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The first informal horse show of the 1930-31 academic year was held at the Infantry School, Nov. 22. There were a hundred or more entries. This show is held each year at this time as a forerunner to the Formal Horse Show, which comes in the Spring. Due to the interest and intensive training of entries in the jumping classes, scores less than 95 rarely placed among the winners. The Handy Hunter course with its 31 entries proved to be a true test of both riders and horses. The course consisted of three outside jumps and five inside. The inside jumps were either staggered or pig-pen types. For negotiating this difficult course, both the rider and horse were busy every second. Many riders fell by the wayside when they reached the stile-jump. The winners in this class were Maj. Lyman, Inf.; Capt. von Schell, German Army; Lt. Monroe, Inf., and Lt. Mood, Inf.

The Enlisted Men's Jumping was won by Pvt. Hall, 29th Inf. The Officers' Schooling Class was won by Lt. Jacobs, 29th Inf. The Ladies' Jumping was won by Mrs. Hedekin. The Officers' Jumping was won by Lt. Hedekin. The Ladies' Saddle Mounts was won by Mrs. Toole. The Enlisted Men's Jumping (colored) was won by Pvt. Futch, 24th Inf. The Officers' Private Mounts was won by Maj. Lyman, Inf. The Fault and Out was won by Pvt. Parker, 29th Inf. The Children's Saddle Class was won by Patty Bull. In the Hunt Teams of Three, Maj. W. M. Hoge, C. E.; Mrs. W. M. Hoge, and Lt. Mood, Inf., were the winning three. Mrs. Hedekin won the Championship Jumping.

ON THE RANGES

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The weekly shoot of the Infantry School Gun Club, Nov. 23, witnessed the largest turnout of the year. Twenty-five shooters participated in the several events. Maj. Hodges was high gun with a fine 23. Maj. Bradley and Capt. Miller divided second place honors with 20's. The "Instructors" managed to avenge themselves on the "Advanced Class" by winning their team match with a margin of 12 birds. As a result of this showing, the instructors now issue a challenge to meet "anyone, anywhere, anytime." Among those present were Cols. Smith and Taylor, representing the refresher class; Maj. Sutherland, Army golf champion, who now aims to make birdies of another feather; Maj. Randolph, the Battalion in Attack director, and Maj. Easley.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Resplendent in their new white waist belts, new white gloves, and sporting the "forty-rounds" McKeever cartridge boxes, the 29th Infantry, Col. Duncan K. Major, Jr., commanding, staged one of the prettiest regimental parades at retreat, Nov. 25, in the Doughboy Stadium at the Infantry School. Prizes for excellency in marksmanship during the past year were presented to the prize winners by the regimental commander.

with their diverse problems—rent, clothes, food, medical attention and other needs. Special employment bureaus have been established to deal with the ever increasing number whose most urgent necessity is work. Last week 581 were found situations by this department. The problem of homeless men looms very large and with the advent of cold weather is likely to be even more serious. Here we are adapting buildings for the housing of these unfortunates. One such institution for instance in the heart of Harlem will accommodate 400 colored men, and with this we hope to alleviate one of the most distressing features of the present crisis.

One of the sad developments is the increasing number of women of all ages, young and old, who for one reason or another have no home. Within a few days a new institution will be opened to accommodate these peculiarly grandfather, Capt. William Cloud, an officer of the Revolution.

It is estimated that there are some 400,000 human beings in Greater New York affected by the unemployment situation. A careful investigation shows that around 60 per cent of applicants for food come from other cities, and the Winter has hardly set in. No one can definitely say what lies before us. The Salvation Army therefore has to frame a program for at least the next six months sufficiently elastic to cope with any situation that may arise. The money paid on Dec. 13 will be earmarked for that purpose, after expenditure already incurred has been met, and we shall ever remember in our administration that we are but the almoners of those generous citizens who honor the Salvation Army with their confidence, relieving distress wherever we find it, irrespective of race, color or creed.

Word was received at the War Department this week that Maj. Gen. Preston Brown, formerly deputy chief of staff, arrived at and assumed command of the Panama Canal Department Monday, Nov. 24.

Col. Edmund L. Butts, Inf., USA, has written a book, "The Keypoint of the Marne," which has been published by the George Banta Publishing Company. The Historical Section of the War Department reports in commenting on it, "The manuscript is an unusually vivid account of a defensive battle of an infantry regiment. It has definite historical value and it has tactical value as a very realistic study of a defensive battle."

Mr. Frank Lahm, father of Mrs. Frank Parker, of Paris, France, arrived Nov. 29 to be the guest of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank Parker, at Sheridan, Ill., and will remain for some time.

Nov. 30, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Frank

Parker entertained at luncheon, at their quarters, at Ft. Sheridan, Gov. and Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, Adm. and Mrs. W. S. Crosley, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Manus McCloskey, Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Follansbee of Chicago. D. W. O. Hotchkiss and Col. and Mrs. R. J. Harkness of Houghton, Mich., and Mr. Frank Lahm.

Lt. and Mrs. Porter T. Gregory and niece Bernadyne Rabidoux, who have been in Europe the past seven months, have returned to New York City, and are enroute to their new station, Ft. Amador.

Capt. A. W. Johnson, USN, who has been in Nicaragua supervising the recent Congressional Elections in that country, left Managua on Nov. 28, with Mrs. Johnson and their daughter, Elvira, by airplane for Washington, D. C. They flew over the Pan American Airways from Managua at San Salvador and across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec to Vera Cruz, where they took the train to Mexico City to visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brown, jr., in that city. They expect to arrive in Washington about the middle of December.

IN THE SADDLE

The 110th Field Artillery poloists scored their second win of the season, Nov. 29, when they took the Fort Hoyle, 6th Artillery team, into camp, 15-8½, at the Pikesville Armory.

The visitors led until the second half, when lack of ractice began to tell, and the home team began to forge ahead. The 110th sent in a new team at the beginning of the second half, which played a strong part in the victory.

The cramped area of the Pikesville Armory caused many unavoidable fouls, and this cut the score of both teams. Even so the playing was faster and sharper than on the previous Saturday, when the Quantico team was defeated.

The home artillerymen started the fourth period with added vigor. Capt. George Foote scored three goals in succession, then after Maj. Mowbray scored one, he scored another.

This pair staged a scoring match which was almost as interesting as the team match. Personal honors went to Maj. Mowbray, who scored one more goal than Capt. Foote, seven being his total for the game.

The Fort Hoyle team was held to one goal in the fourth stanza, but they attempted a valiant come-back in the fifth. Their three goals proved to be their last bid for victory, however, for the home team rifled in four more counters for themselves.

The final chukker found the weary visitors unable to check the fast riding 110th, who completed the victory with four more goals.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The promotion and supervision of Ft. Benning Polo is under the direction of a polo committee consisting of three members appointed by the Commandant of The Infantry School. Subject to his approval, this committee will promulgate polo policies and render all decisions on controversial matters among teams. The committee consists of the following: Maj. D. E. McCunniff, Inf., W. M. Hoge, jr., CE, and Adrian St. John, CWS.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The first informal horse show of the 1930-31 academic year was held at the Infantry School, Nov. 22. There were a hundred or more entries. This show is held each year at this time as a forerunner to the Formal Horse Show, which comes in the Spring. Due to the interest and intensive training of entries in the jumping classes, scores less than 95 rarely placed among the winners. The Handy Hunter course with its 31 entries proved to be a true test of both riders and horses. The course consisted of three outside jumps and five inside. The inside jumps were either staggered or pig-pen types. For negotiating this difficult course, both the rider and horse were busy every second. Many riders fell by the wayside when they reached the stile-jump. The winners in this class were Maj. Lyman, Inf.; Capt. von Schell, German Army; Lt. Monroe, Inf., and Lt. Mood, Inf.

The Enlisted Men's Jumping was won by Pvt. Hall, 29th Inf. The Officers' Schooling Class was won by Lt. Jacobs, 29th Inf. The Ladies' Jumping was won by Mrs. Hedekin. The Officers' Jumping was won by Lt. Hedekin. The Ladies' Saddle Mounts was won by Mrs. Toole. The Enlisted Men's Jumping (colored) was won by Pvt. Futch, 24th Inf. The Officers' Private Mounts was won by Maj. Lyman, Inf. The Fault and Out was won by Pvt. Parker, 29th Inf. The Children's Saddle Class was won by Patty Bull. In the Hunt Teams of Three, Maj. W. M. Hoge, C. E.; Mrs. W. M. Hoge, and Lt. Mood, Inf., were the winning three. Mrs. Hedekin won the Championship Jumping.

ON THE RANGES

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The weekly shoot of the Infantry School Gun Club, Nov. 23, witnessed the largest turnout of the year. Twenty-five shooters participated in the several events. Maj. Hodges was high gun with a fine 23. Maj. Bradley and Capt. Miller divided second place honors with 20's. The "Instructors" managed to avenge themselves on the "Advanced Class" by winning their team match with a margin of 12 birds. As a result of this showing, the instructors now issue a challenge to meet "anyone, anywhere, anytime." Among those present were Cols. Smith and Taylor, representing the refresher class; Maj. Sutherland, Army golf champion, who now aims to make birdies of another feather; Maj. Randolph, the Battalion in Attack director, and Maj. Easley.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—Resplendent in their new white waist belts, new white gloves, and sporting the "forty-rounds" McKeever cartridge boxes, the 29th Infantry, Col. Duncan K. Major, Jr., commanding, staged one of the prettiest regimental parades at retreat, Nov. 25, in the Doughboy Stadium at the Infantry School. Prizes for excellency in marksmanship during the past year were presented to the prize winners by the regimental commander.

You CAN'T help admiring the charm of natural beauty, any more than you can help enjoying the natural mildness of a Camel Cigarette.

Camel's mildness starts in the sun-drenched fields where the tobaccos grow. Only the choicest of the golden Turkish and mellow Domestic leaves are selected for Camels. Through every step of their cure and manufacture the delicate, sun-ripe fragrance of these tobaccos is scientifically preserved. And so Camels come to you mild and delightful—not flat and flavorless.

Swing with the crowd to Camels. Learn the happy difference between true mildness and insipid flatness. Smoke without fear of throat-discomfort or after-taste—just for pleasure!
